McDowell Creek Watershed Management Plan Update Final Report for Fiscal Year 2022

Prepared by: Mecklenburg County Water Quality Pollution Prevention Program August 1, 2022

Purpose

The purpose of the Watershed Management Plan (WMP) is to guide restoration, retrofit and preservation efforts aimed at achieving specific goals for improving water quality conditions in McDowell Creek and McDowell Creek Cove such that these waters meet or exceed their State designated uses and are no longer rated as impaired on 303(d) lists. This WMP update documents activities from the completion of the WMP through August 1, 2022.

Background

The WMP was developed and implemented in 2006 and identifies several techniques which are being used to restore the watershed. These techniques include water quality monitoring, BMP construction, and stream restoration. This plan was written as a 'comprehensive roadmap for the management and restoration of surface waters in the entire watershed.' The NC Division of Water Resources recognized that the McDowell Creek watershed has a category 4b status, as long as Mecklenburg County maintains the Watershed Management Plan.

Policy Changes

The City of Huntersville adopted a Low Impact Development Ordinance in 2003. Post Construction Runoff Control was adopted on June 30, 2007.

On May 20, 2020, the Board of County Commissioners voted to adopt the revised Mecklenburg County Surface Water Pollution Control Ordinance which would include the portions of the McDowell Creek Watershed in Mecklenburg County and Huntersville. The Ordinance was updated to include a ban of the use of pavement products with high levels of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAH).

Completed Capital Improvement Projects

The goal of Mecklenburg County's Water Quality Capital Improvement Program (CIP) is to stabilize stream channels and restore in-stream habitat conditions to promote stream designated uses.

CIP projects which have been completed in the McDowell Creek Watershed:

- 1. Stream Restoration. Stream Restoration activities have been conducted on several stream segments in the McDowell Creek Watershed:
 - a. The Park Huntersville Phase I (Completed July 1, 2013):
 - b. Torrence Creek Tributary #1 (Completed May 1, 2013):
 - c. Torrence Creek Tributary #2 (Completed 2009)

d. Bud Henderson Road (Completed May 13, 2013 by a private mitigation bank):

e. McDowell Creek – Birkdale to Gilead Road (Completed July 1, 2016).

f. Monteith Park (Completed 2014 by a private mitigation bank).

g. Torrence Creek Trib #1 from Reese Boulevard East to I-77. Completed in Fall of 2018.

- 2. BMP Retrofits Several BMP retrofits were completed between 2006 and 2017.
 - a. Monteith Park (Completed 2009):
 - b. North Cross Drive Executive Park (Completed 2009):
 - c. North Cross Shopping Center (Completed 2009)
 - d. Whole Foods Shopping Center (Completed 2009):
 - e. North Mecklenburg Recycle Center (Completed 2010).
 - f. Ange Property (Completed 2010).

Current CIP Projects

There are no active CIP projects in the McDowell Creek Watershed.

Stream Restoration Ranking System

Stream restoration projects typically address problems with vertical stability and lateral stability within the channel. Instability enlarges the channel through bank and bed erosion, thereby destroying the local aquatic ecosystem. To achieve ecological uplift, the three primary geomorphic variables (pattern, profile, and dimension) that dictate functionality of the stream must be considered. Pattern refers to the sinuosity or meander geometry of a stream channel. Profile is the longitudinal slope of the stream channel. Dimension is the two-dimensional cross section of a channel.

Restoration is the process of converting an unstable, altered, or degraded stream channel, including the surrounding riparian zone and flood prone areas, to a stable condition considering recent and future watershed conditions. Full stream restoration is often not possible because most projects have constraints, especially in urbanized stream systems. Stream enhancement is another option that includes facets of restoration. These activities may include in-stream or stream bank repairs, but in total fall short of restoring one or more of the geomorphic variables.

The Stream Restoration Ranking System (SRRS) was developed by Mecklenburg County Storm Water Services to prioritize which streams are restored based on the quality of the stream. In other words, the streams that need the most help and are the most impaired will be prioritized for restoration. SRRS uses a desktop scoring system to provide insight regarding which streams may need improvements. Staff then walk these stream reaches, collect data on geomorphology and aquatic habitat, and analyze the data to generate a SRRS score. The maximum and best score a stream can get is 300. Any stream that gets a score below 190 would be a good candidate for restoration or enhancement. The current SRRS rankings and scores for major stream segments in the McDowell watershed can be found in the table below.

Impervious Area

When the WMP was completed, impervious areas were estimated based upon land use. This method of estimating impervious areas was inaccurate. In 2011, Mecklenburg County began digitizing actual impervious areas based upon aerial photographs. The increase of impervious areas in the McDowell Creek Watershed are shown below.

Service Requests

From June 30, 2020, through August 4, 2022, Water Quality staff have responded to 63 separate service requests in the McDowell Creek Watershed. These service requests were for a variety of problems include spills, erosion issues, sanitary sewer discharges, and buffer violations. A summary of the service requests is shown below. Additional information about each service request may be viewed by searching for the inspection number or the service request number in the Cityworks server.

Continued Monitoring of the McDowell Creek Watershed

Water quality monitoring has been conducted in the McDowell Creek watershed since the 1970s. Monitoring has included the following data collection efforts:

a. Fixed Interval Monitoring. Fixed interval monitoring was conducted at MC4 (McDowell Creek at Beatties Ford Road) on a monthly basis throughout the fiscal year.

b. Macroinvertebrate Samples. Macroinvertebrate samples and MHAP data were collected at MC4 and MC2A-1.

c. Figures 3 and 4 below show graphically Fecal Coliform Sampling results at the MC4 site. Figure 2 shows the location of the sampling sites mentioned in this report (MC4 and MC2A1).

A section of McDowell Creek is subject to a fecal coliform TMDL. According to the approved 2020 305(b) report, McDowell Creek is currently meeting the fecal coliform criteria. Mecklenburg County has been assigned responsibility for this TMDL on behalf of the Phase I and Phase II jurisdictions in Charlotte-Mecklenburg. Table 7 below show details of the fecal coliform data collected at MC4 overtime. Figures 2 and 3 provide a visual comparison of fecal coliform data collected over time and indicate an improvement in fecal coliform for the McDowell Creek Watershed. Note that FY2022 only provides data through July and is not a complete picture of the results. Sampling data is based on the calendar year, not the fiscal year.

Mean fecal coliform levels in McDowell Creek exhibited a decrease from 2020 to 2021. We do not have the complete dataset from FY2022 to assess the most recent trends. The existing BMPs for these watersheds appear to be effective at identifying and eliminating pollution sources in compliance with TMDL requirements. These BMPs will continue to be implemented in FY2023.

Benthic Macroinvertebrates

Benthic macroinvertebrate surveys are conducted on an annual basis to assess the abundance and diversity of the biological community. Table 8 summarizes the benthic macroinvertebrate data that has been collected from site MC4 from July 2000 – July 2021.

The North Carolina Index of Biotic Integrity (NCIBI) is a measure of the structure and "health" of a stream's biological community. The NCIBI integrates data about species richness and composition, trophic composition, species abundance, and habitat condition. The general trend for NCIBI at MC4 is Fair for macrobenthic invertebrates. In recent years, the Bioclass has increased to Good-Fair.

In 2022, Mecklenburg County Water Quality Department did a more up-to-date and in depth look into the macrobenthic data for sites MC4 and MC2A1 within the McDowell Creek Watershed. This was prompted by the State of North Carolina reclassifying MC4 from "Fair" to "Good-Fair" in 2017 and the bioclassification jumping to "Good-Fair" in 2020 based on improved NCBI scores. While there were no clear trends noted in the NCBI and EPT data for sites MC2 and MC3E, there were notable trends for MC2A1 and MC4 that supported the State's findings. These four sites were chosen of the 15 sites within the McDowell Creek Watershed because we have long-term data for them that goes back to the early 2000s. The State of North Carolina also does routine sampling at MC4 and they use the EPT Method to determine bioclassification scores. In 2017, the State EPT for MC4 was 15 (Good-Fair) and Mecklenburg County's EPT was 13 (Fair). The State reported that in 2017, "the stream [McDowell Creek at MC4] is likely affected by degraded macroinvertebrate habitat and its mostly developed catchment, and substrate substrate present." MC4 represents data from unrestored stream sections within the watershed and MC2A1 is representative of restored stream reaches. The results of the analyses are summarized below:

MC4

The average EPT counts are higher since 2016 and appear to be trending upward. NCBI was significantly lower (which is good) in 2020 but did not show a similar upward trend like the EPT. Bioclassification remained "Fair" in the last decade, jumping to "Good-Fair" in 2020 based on improved NCBI scores. While there appears to be an upward trend in EPT data, it may be too early to jump to a conclusion based on the still limited data. Figures 5 through 7 below represent the data analyzed.

MC2A1

This site appears to show the clearest trends in improvement in both NCBI and EPT numbers. 2017 seems to be a turning point where we see NCBI scores go down and EPT scores go up. The combined NCBI and EPT scores are trending upward, which led to a "Good-Fair" classification in 2020. The habitat scores also saw a significant change from <100 prior to 2017 to an average of 155 since 2017. The restoration projects within the reach were completed prior to 2017, which could explain the improved habitat scores. Figures 8 through 10 below represent the data analyzed.

Fish

Fish community surveys are conducted on a 3-year and 4-year rotation at sites throughout the County. Table 9 summarizes the fish community data that has been collected at MC4 from May 1996 through April 2019.

Additional BMPs Implemented for the McDowell Creek TMDL in FY2022

During FY2022, the following actions were completed to reduce fecal coliform bacteria levels and enhance water quality in this watershed:

- 1. Health Department records were reviewed, and no failed septic systems were identified in the watershed between June 30, 2021, and August 1, 2022, which suggests that failing septic systems are not a chronic problem in this area.
- 2. Fecal coliform samples were routinely collected at various locations within the McDowell Creek Watershed. These samples showed no significant elevation in fecal coliform levels within the Watershed.
- Beginning on November 1, 2021, and concluding on April 25, 2022, CMSWS staff walked approximately 127.7 stream miles in the Phase II jurisdictions, including 15.58 miles (3 basins) in the McDowell Creek Watershed. There was one (1) dry weather flow noted, but the flow was too low to collect fecal coliform and total phosphorus samples. Twelve (12) outfalls were inspected, five (5) stream blockages were noted, and two (2) beaver dams were located.

Adaptive Management

The Water Quality Program should continue implementing the Watershed Management Plan. Fixed Interval Monitoring, Benthic and Fish Monitoring, and stream walks could be expanded to other sections of the watershed. Stream restoration and enhancement opportunities are challenging due to the inability to obtain easements. Opportunities to partner with other government agencies and the towns to implement stream restoration projects should be investigated. The McDowell Creek Watershed Management Plan will be updated in FY2024.
